

MILAN FASHION WEEK

Movers and shakers in the city

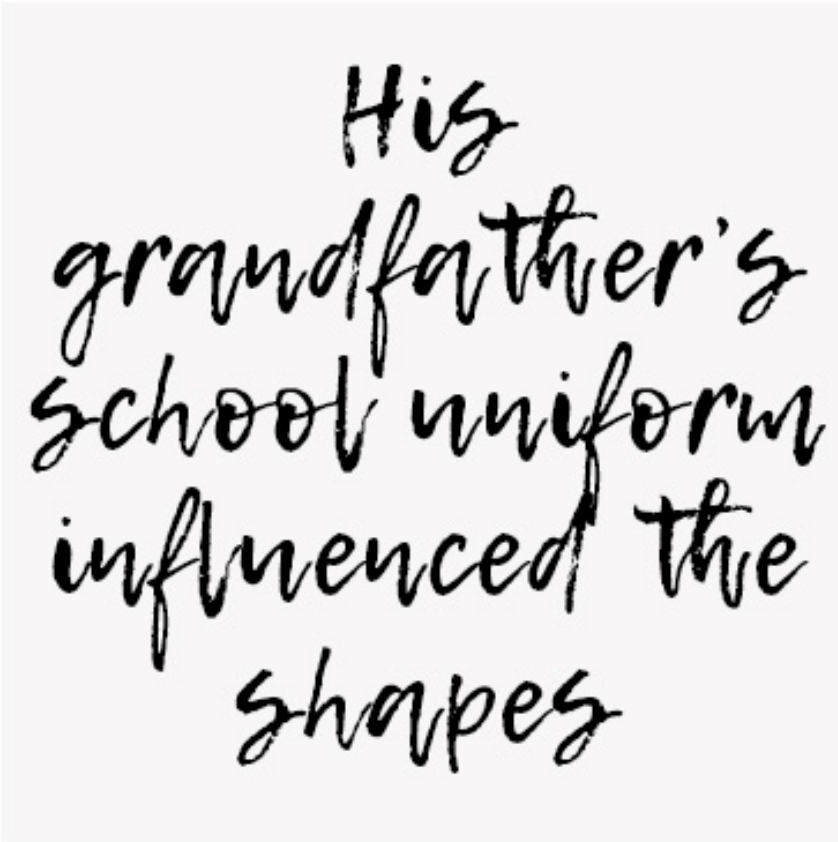

With Italian design still enjoying something of a renaissance, enhancing its reputation for exceptional craftsmanship and ageless elegance, the line between fashion and art is increasingly blurred. Beyond femininity, expect the unexpected from our luxury line-up.

SHOP NOW >

Arthur Arbesser

Collaborating with artists and architects to fully realise his creative vision, Arthur Arbesser learned the tricks of the tailoring trade at Armani and is one Central Saint Martins graduate making waves outside of London. Appointed Iceberg's Creative Director in 2015, the Austrian's eponymous label specialises in clean, languid silhouettes galvanised by bold flourishes.

SHOP NOW >

Credits

Top left

Signature Arrows Knit Polo
Camouflage Frill Shirt

Bottom right

Sailor Collar Plissé Dress
Signature Arrows Knit Polo

TO SIT BELOW THE SLIDER IN NORMAL PLACE

IMAGE CREDITS

Arthur Arbesser

(Left to right, top to bottom)
Arthur Arbesser SS17 Show. Image via nowfashion.com
Arthur Arbesser SS17 Show. Image via vogue.com
Inspiration, vintage handles. Image via @arthurarbesser
Backstage at Arthur Arbesser SS17 Show.
Image via sleek-mag.com
Arthur Arbesser SS17 Show. Image via arthurarbesser.com
Image via Avenue 32

Marco de Vincenzo

(Left to right, top to bottom)
Marco De Vincenzo SS17 Show. Image via @MarcodeVincenzoofficial
Marco De Vincenzo SS17 Show. Image via @MarcodeVincenzoofficial
Rita Ora. Image via @marcodevincenzo
Marco De Vincenzo SS17 show backstage.
Image via @marcodevincenzo
Image via Avenue 32
Image via Avenue 32

Vivetta

(Left to right, top to bottom)
Vivetta SS17 Show. Image via vivetta.it
Vivetta SS17 Show. Image via vivetta.it
Vivetta SS17 Show backstage. Image via vivetta.it
Vivetta SS17 Show backstage. Image via @vivetta
Image via Avenue 32
Image via Avenue 32

MILAN FASHION WEEK

Movers and shakers in the city

With Italian design still enjoying something of a renaissance, enhancing its reputation for exceptional craftsmanship and ageless elegance, the line between fashion and art is increasingly blurred. Beyond femininity, expect the unexpected from our luxury line-up.

SHOP NOW >

Marco de Vincenzo

Discovered by the late Franca Sozzani, Italian Vogue's former Editor-in-Chief, Marco de Vincenzo is a maximalist at heart—clashing inspired details, novel textures and dramatic colours upon ladylike silhouettes. Influential editors Anna Dello Russo and Giovanna Engelbert (nee Battaglia) can't get enough of his ready-to-wear and his footwear, particularly the braided heels, is insta-famous.

SHOP NOW >

Credits

Top left

Spaghetti Sequin Dress
Fringe Embroidered Bird Dress
Pink Double Layer skirt

Bottom left

Spaghetti Sequin Dress

Bottom right

Cobweb Mules
Woven Heel Sneakers

MILAN FASHION WEEK

Movers and shakers in the city

With Italian design still enjoying something of a renaissance, enhancing its reputation for exceptional craftsmanship and ageless elegance, the line between fashion and art is increasingly blurred. Beyond femininity, expect the unexpected from our luxury line-up.

SHOP NOW >

Vivetta

In the animated world that Vivi Ponti has created for her luxury brand Vivetta, kitsch is king and the vintage-inspired cuts are embroidered with the sweetest surreal motifs. Perfect for off-beat girly girls or anyone looking to make an adorable statement, follow Alexa Chung's and Felicity Jones' lead. Everything is proudly made in Italy.

SHOP NOW >

Magical pieces depict classic children's fairytales

See more

Credits:

Top left

Yak Floral Dress

Damigella Bell Sleeve Dress

Bottom right

Macone Fairy Print Jacket

Damigella Bell Sleeve Dress