SKIRTS TO SIZZLE IN

Summer minis, midis and maxis

34px

When the sun comes out, so do your legs which make skirts a summertime necessity. Their hems can rise and fall, fabrics can swirl or stand strong against the wind and well-chosen details will work at any hour. Such sartorial flexibility is unprecedented and that's before the endless array of tops they could be styled with is factored in. It's simply a matter of taste, temperature and which one of your favourite features, and shoes, you'd like to show off first.

Isa Arfen's tiered ruffles are rhythmic rather than romantic running flamenco-like across this statement skirt. Fitted but fluid with flashes of calf, the monochrome gingham check used is yet another witty twist on tradition.

No skirt style dresses up and down as effortlessly as the pleated midi so lighten it up, in every sense of the word. Tome's cornflower blue tone feels fresh and is trending for SS16.

Occasion skirts may be dramatic but they never look try-hard, even with the tinsel texture, fringing and contrasting panels of Jourdan's floor sweeper. Tuck in a t-shirt to stand out from the crowd further.
